This image displays a variety of philatelic materials. At the top left, there's a small sheet of four 5p stamps featuring architectural designs and profile portraits. To its right is a 2x2 grid of four 20p stamps showing Queen Elizabeth II's profile. Below these are two identical blue rectangular labels for the "LONDON STAMP EXHIBITION 1936 LONDON OCT 17-24". In the center-left is a booklet titled "British Polar Explorers" by British Mint Stamps, which features a compass rose design at the bottom. To the right of the booklet are several individual stamps: a 3p stamp of James Clark Ross, a 5p stamp of another historical figure, a 7½p stamp of a bearded man, and a 9p stamp of a military officer. Further right is a larger sheet of eight 6p stamps commemorating the 700th Anniversary of Parliament, each depicting a different scene or figure. At the bottom right, there's a diamond-shaped arrangement of four purple 1p stamps featuring Queen Elizabeth II's profile.
