Raffaello SANZIO ou SANTI, dit RAPHAEL (1483-1520), peintre italien formé à l'École du PERUGIN avant d'assimiler à Florence les techniques de LÉONARDE DE VINCI (surtout les deux premiers maîtres de MICHEL ANGE. Recommandé par BRAMANTE, il devint peintre officiel du Vatican. Son style alliant les courants de divers courants, fonctionnant de maître à élève, fait de RAPHAEL la référence absolue de l'académisme.

Jean Baptiste REGNAULT (1754-1829), peintre français, élève de Vernet, admirateur de RAPHAËL. Il voulut se poser en rival de DAVID, dont il critiquait la froideur et l'intransigence ... bien que sa propre œuvre soit lisse, froide et inexpressive.

Diego RIVERA (1886-1957), peintre, dessinateur et graveur mexicain. À partir de 1906, il travaille en Europe où il rencontre Picasso, Matisse et Modigliani. De retour au Mexique, il participe à la Révolution, il développe un art mexicain associant formes mayas au style cubiste. Il fut très violemment critiqué aux États-Unis pour ses idées marxistes.
